2007.09.27.

HAS is currently hosting a three-day conference on the philosophical aspects of using cellphones and the internet world-wide.

The conference called "Towards a Philosophy of Telecommunications Convergence" has encouraged 62 papers to be written and read by scholars from 18 countries. The floor will be given, among others, to such renowned researchers as Boston physicist Albert-László Barabási, or cognitive psychologist Csaba Pléh, Deputy General Secretary of HAS.
